Directions to contributors/Submissions information

repercussions invites submissions on any aspect of music, culture, and critical theory. There are no set formats for contributions: we welcome articles with personal, hortatory, or polemic perspectives, as well as those unconventional in structure or voice. Proposals for interviews, bulletins, or roundtables will be considered by the editors: please send a short description to the address below.

Prospective contributors should submit two hard copies and a computer disk copy (3.5in. Macintosh compatible, if possible) of their manuscript. Submissions are reviewed anonymously, so authors are asked not to include their names on each page. All manuscripts must be double-spaced, including footnotes, quotations and extracts. Musical examples, tables, texts for music examples, captions, and footnotes are to be typed at the end of the text and on separate pages. Contributors are responsible for obtaining all permissions to quote extracts or to reproduce photographs. Permissions and photo acknowledgments should be included in caption copy. Forward all copies of permissions granted to repercussions.

repercussions follows the style guidelines given in Writing about Music by the editors of 19th-Century Music. For style matters not covered in this publication, contributors should consult the Chicago Manual of Style, 13th edn. (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1982).

Submissions and books for review should be addressed to the Editors, repercussions, 107 Morrison Hall, University of California, Berkeley, CA 94720.
